This year, as in previous years, the homework centre has been made available to Aboriginal students. This is an after school program attended by Aboriginal children and school staff. The co-ordinator, Lizzy Walker prepares a snack before the children begin their work. Staff sit with the children to help them with their homework and also give them some one on one time. This is an excellent opportunity for the children to ensure their homework is completed for the week and to also get that extra help from teachers. A big thank you to all staff who help with
